Happy Fathers Day

Remembering especially fathers who are ill.

We are especially sensitive today to families who have lost their father.

As Holidays Approach

We are entering that time of year when schools are closing, exams are over and big projects are put aside until September. This is the 'breather' season. In recent years so many people were in a position to take a holiday abroad. This is unlikely to be the case for most people this year. Few places are as attractive as our own country when the weather is good. So let us appreciate where we are and what we have. We don't need to go abroad to relax and enjoy ourselves, despite what the travel brochures tell us. To ensure that our holiday period is safe and peaceful we need to be careful on the roads and not take risks on the beach. Whether your holiday is home or away the important thing is for family to be together and to appreciate again how precious each one is. Enjoy.
