There was a widow whose only son died. Broken-hearted with grief, she went to a holy man and begged him to restore her son to life. He was moved by her anguish and said, 'Bring me a mustard seed from a house which has no suffering, and I will restore him to life.'

The woman travelled through the country, visiting house after house in search of the mustard seed. In every house, rich and poor alike, people shared their stories of suffering with her. They told of loneliness, illness, tragedy, and death.

At first she only half-listened to their stories, but as time went on her attitude changed. Gradually she came to listen with understanding and began to feel compassion for the sufferers.

Finally she returned to the holy man and said, 'I have not found a mustard seed but I have been restored to life through recognizing that my suffering is shared in different ways by every person. I now know that I am not alone in my grief.'

One of the worst aspects of suffering is the feeling of isolation. Healing begins when we take our pain out of its isolation and see that whatever we suffer, we suffer in communion with all humanity. There is a Persian proverb that goes like this: 'I cried because I had no shoes until I met a man who had no legs.'

Wednesday 8th June there will be Mass in St Joseph's Church at 7.30 am for all doing exams.
