purpose, a new meaning and, he affirmed, an abiding satisfaction. All of us remember the story of the old alcoholic who ended his addiction. When asked about Jesus' miracle of turning the water into wine he replied, "I don't know about that, but I do know that in my house Jesus changed whiskey into furniture." Many millions of people over the centuries have experienced that kind of change at the hand of Christ.

Conversion to Christ

The writer, Leo Tolstoy, told about his turn to Christ in a book entitled, My Conversion. Tolstoy wrote, "[When] Faith came to me; I believed in Jesus Christ, and all my life suddenly changed. I ceased to desire that which previously I had desired, and on the other hand, I took to desiring what I had never desired before. That which formerly used to appear good in my eyes appeared evil and that which used to appear evil appeared good." Before his conversion, Tolstoy had acquired fame and fortune through his great writings. But he was unsatisfied. "I fought duels," he wrote. "I gambled, I wasted my substance wrung from the sweat of peasants and deceived men. Lying, robbery, adultery of all kinds, drunkenness was my life." His conversion, one of the most dramatic of modern times, gave his life a new
