Interview for telegraph operator

Fr Mark Link once told an incident that happened during the great depression. Jobs were scarce, and when an opening was announced, dozens of applicants applied. On this particular occasion, they crowded into a waiting room, eager to be interviewed for the position of telegraph operator. But the noise of their conversation competed against a steady background of dots and dashes. Suddenly, the door opened and yet another applicant entered the room. After standing there quietly for a moment listening attentively to the dots and dashes, he walked to a door marked "Private" and knocked. The personnel director opened the door and announced to the others, "You may all go now; this applicant has the job." Furious and frustrated, the others demanded an explanation. At that, the director said, "Listen!" When the room became quiet, all heard the dots and dashes, repeating over and over the same message, "If you hear this, come in; the job is yours." This story reminds us that God is constantly speaking to us, but, like the crowd of applicants, we are not always listening.
